Dear Colleagues,

I am Sumathi Kemiseti, MD, the sole owner of Care Medical Services, PC in Great Neck, New York. I am writing to share that our practice is partnering with EquityForecast to strengthen how we anticipate demand and prepare our teams to meet it.

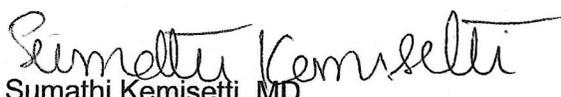

In hospital medicine, "busy" is not just a feeling. It is admissions arriving in clusters, beds turning over unevenly, discharge timing shifting hour by hour, and the constant need to keep care safe while moving patients through the system efficiently. When we are forced to plan reactively, the cost is measured in delayed care, stressed teams, and frustrated patients and families. When we plan proactively, those same pressure points become manageable, and the entire care experience improves.

This partnership is about being ready sooner. EquityForecast helps translate real patterns in utilization into practical guidance that supports staffing decisions, capacity planning, and smoother patient flow. It is especially important to me that smarter planning also supports more consistent access, so that avoidable delays do not fall hardest on patients who already face barriers to care.

Any information shared for analysis is de-identified and handled in accordance with applicable privacy and security requirements, including HIPAA. No patient names or direct identifiers are shared. Care Medical Services, PC retains control of what is provided and how it is used.

I am pleased to endorse EquityForecast as a thoughtful, practical partner for forecasting and operational readiness in healthcare. I believe this collaboration will help us deliver care that feels more timely, more reliable, and more respectful of the people we serve.

Sincerely,

Sumathi Kemiseti, MD
